THE HALL OF CHAMPIONS: HONORING THE LEADERS WHO HELPED BUILD ALLOYA

Fifteen years ago, the corporate credit union system faced significant change and uncertainty. In circumstances where many might see defeat, a group of visionary leaders instead saw an opportunity to create something that would support credit union success not just in the moment, but for years to come. Through their guidance, stewardship and commitment to the cooperative movement, they helped establish the foundation that has enabled Alloya to grow into the nation's largest corporate credit union.

To honor these leaders, the corporate unveiled the Alloya Hall of Champions during its recent Credit Union Leadership Symposium, held in Nashville, Tennessee, from September 9-11. The Hall of Champions was created to recognize individuals whose leadership, vision and service have helped shape Alloya and advance the corporate credit union movement.

The inaugural class of the Alloya Hall of Champions includes eight individuals who played an instrumental role in Alloya's formation and have served on Alloya's Board of Directors or Supervisory Committee throughout the organization's entire 15-year history:

- Curt Cecala: President and CEO, TCT FCU
- Michael Daugherty: Retired CEO, Community Plus CU
- John Fiore: Retired President and CEO, Motorola Employees CU, now known as Consumers Credit Union
- Leanne McGuinness: CFO, The Summit FCU
- Floyd Rummel, III: Retired CEO, Northern Hills FCU
- Amy Sink: CEO, Interra CU
- Dan Stoltz: President and CEO, Blaze CU
- David Suvall: Retired President and CEO, Rhode Island CU

These leaders contributed their time, talent and expertise to help create an organization that has strengthened credit unions nationwide. Their impact can still be seen today in the solutions, partnerships and opportunities Alloya provides to its network of more than 1,200 member credit unions.

"The story of Alloya has always been a story of people united by a shared purpose," said Todd Adams, Alloya's CEO. "At a pivotal moment for the corporate credit union system, these leaders stepped forward with vision, courage and an unwavering belief in the Power of Cooperation."

As Alloya looks ahead to its next chapter, the Hall of Champions serves as a reminder that great things happen when people come together around a shared mission. ## FRESHLY MINTED: MEET CUUSD

For 15 years, Alloya has worked to help credit unions navigate change through the Power of Cooperation. Today, that spirit of innovation continues with the introduction of CUUSD, a newly minted U.S. dollar-denominated institutional payment stablecoin issued by Appex CUSO, LLC (Alloya Premier Exchange), a wholly owned subsidiary of Alloya*. CUUSD is being designed specifically for credit unions and financial institutions. Through CUUSD, Alloya is exploring a new way for credit unions to access a cooperative-aligned solution as stablecoin technology becomes increasingly relevant to the financial services industry.

On September 28, 2026, $1 million of CUUSD was minted on the Ethereum blockchain, marking an exciting milestone in Alloya's ongoing innovation efforts. The program will initially be introduced through a controlled pilot involving a limited number of approved institutional participants. This measured approach will allow for testing, learning and refinement under strict operational and compliance standards before broader implementation is considered. CUUSD is not available for public purchase at this time.

To learn more about this milestone innovation, view our recent press release.

**Any future issuance, distribution, or commercial deployment of CUUSD will remain subject to applicable legal, regulatory and supervisory requirements. This news is provided for informational purposes only and does not constitute an offer to sell, a solicitation of an offer to purchase or an investment recommendation with respect to any digital asset, security or financial product.*
